Canada Navy Makes Tremendous Strides Since Start Of War

Canada is a maritime nation with extended coastlines on two oceans. The British Navy was Canada's natural defence. Today, Canada's ships and Canadian men are aiding Britain, and guarding Canada's shores. The Canadian Navy has the first of Canada's three fighting services to get its "baptism of fire" in the air war and the first decorations granted for gallantry to members of Canada's fighting forces were granted to naval men.

The present strength of the Royal Canadian Navy, which forms Canada's first line of defence, is six times as great as at the outbreak of the war.

In the following article, second of a series outlining the Dominion's naval effort, John N. Crandall, British United Press staff correspondent, outlines some of the recent developments of the Royal Canadian Navy and the important part it is playing in the war against Hitler.—EDITOR.

By JAMES N. CRANDALL
British United Press Staff Correspondent

OTTAWA, Aug. 28.—With the war spreading to all the seven seas, the Royal Canadian Navy is being called upon to play an increasingly important part in the defence of Canada and the Empire.

Just a year ago the average Canadian was unaware of the Dominion's naval strength and he did not know of the tremendous detail which had been prepared as this immediate expansion of the Dominion's sea force could be effected if war should come. That was a year ago, at noon on Sunday, September 18, 1939. Within a minute of the formal declaration of war against Germany, officers and ratings of the Royal Navy were at their posts.

The navy's strength at that time was 15 ships and only 1,774 men. In a very few months 215 vessels were in the service and the personnel strength was 10,000.

This rapid growth has, in itself, been an achievement, and a lasting credit to those who had laid such thorough plans for its enlargement. While a navy comprising only 215 vessels may seem small when compared with those of the great sea powers, it can do today what almost impossible tasks would have been beyond the power of the British Navy if the Canadian Navy did not exist.

Not only was Canada able to contribute some of its vessels for service with the Royal Navy during the evacuation of the British Expeditionary Force from France, and is now aiding in the defence of Britain, but she has been able to arrange convoys for merchant ships and troop ships. Canada has also taken over blockade duties in certain parts of the world.

In addition, the Canadian Navy is operating under the command of the Royal Navy a total of more than 150 other Canadian warships on the coast of the Royal Navy of the British Navy in England.

DANGEROUS DUTIES

The Royal Canadian Navy has had to do a share of the most dangerous and difficult duties since the outbreak of war. Some of the ships are assigned to the Atlantic patrol and have to complete dangerous and remarkable efforts, carried out in the face of air attacks and weather. Other vessels have been sent to the Caribbean, still others to the Indian Ocean, and some to the Pacific. One of these ships, the H.M.C.S. Proton, was lost.

SUMMER SALADS WITH A SPARKLE
Pears

Luscious halves or quarters, garnished with fresh greens and mayonnaise make delicious pear salads. And no wonder—the big, sun-ripened B.C. pears on display at your neighbourhood fruit dealers have been slowly mellowed to the peak of flavour, hand-picked and carefully selected so that you may buy the best.

Serve them often! Serve them any way you like. For salads—for desserts, whole or quartered—you'll find nothing more refreshingly delightful.

A PRODUCT OF B.C. FRUIT GROWERS

while on duty off the coast of France with the loss of 45 men. That the death toll was not greater was due to the courage and skill of the crew of the H.M.C.S. Restigouche taking on the survivors.

A few weeks later the Restigouche again figured in the gallant rescue of the crew and about 700 Italian and German prisoners aboard the Andros star, torpedoed in the Atlantic while en route to Canada. All rescue work in submarine-infested waters is dangerous today as due to loss of speed and consequent manoeuvring the resulting vessel becomes an easy target.

Every ship entering or leaving Canadian Atlantic ports must be escorted by the Royal Canadian Navy. Munitions, airplanes and food stuffs of vital necessity to England, must be protected and, since Canada is Britain's source of supply, has been the chief duty of the R.C.N.

Since the outbreak of war, the Royal Canadian Navy has spent the majority of its time in the task of escorting convoys of ships. With the loss of less than one quarter of one per cent.

Every CARE TAKEN
Before a ship enters each ship is carefully inspected. Every member of the crew is checked to avoid the possibility of enemy agents being among them. Every ship is a day the captain of all the vessels are brought to the conference with the naval authorities. Each in turn the position he is to maintain during the coming, the ship he is to maintain, and the speed at which he must proceed. The zero hour is given and the captains are returned to their ships to await the deadline. Then they slip quietly out of the harbor with battle area destroyers, minesweepers and submarines of the Royal Canadian Navy flanking them.

The admiralty in London is notified of the departure and it is sometimes arranged that British warships, conveying vessels coming to Canada, are met at a certain spot. Here the Royal Navy's fleet over the protection of the eastbound ships while the R.C.N. vessels turn about and guide the westbound vessels safely into port.

Reciprocal Trade Agreements Are Defended By Hull

WASHINGTON, Aug. 28.—State Secretary Cordell Hull Wednesday defended the reciprocal trade agreements policy against criticism by Senator Charles McNary, Republican of Oregon, and declared the only alternative was a return to isolationism.

There is no such thing as a free lunch, Hull said, and the only way to get it is to pay for it. He said that the United States must not expect to get a free lunch from other countries and that the only way to get it is to pay for it. ... Then Back To The Wars In The Skies

Strategically-located airports have sighted Nazi bombing squadrons, the air raid sirens have shrieked, and within a split second R.A.F. fighter planes are racing aloft. In photo taken while recent German air raids were actually in progress, two Hurricane fighters race to meet the challenge "somewhere in England."

ANTI-AIRCRAFT BATTERY WILL BE MOBILIZED

First Unit Of This Type In Alberta History To Be Raised

CALGARY, Aug. 28.—Emphasizing that in the present war aerial defence is an important duty of the army, orders have been issued by headquarters of Military District 12 to mobilize immediately for active service the first anti-aircraft artillery battery in Alberta history.

The unit will be known as the 12th Light Anti-Aircraft Battery, Royal Canadian Artillery, C.A.S.F. (Canadian Armoured Support Force) and will be composed of the 22nd Field Battery, R.C.A., C.A.S.F., and the 12th Light Anti-Aircraft Battery, R.C.A., C.A.S.F.

The new battery is ordered to perpetuate the 12th Field Battery, R.C.A., C.A.S.F., at Medicine Hat. The selection of the Medicine Hat battery represents the representation in the C.A.S.F. of all Alberta militia artillery units.

Many of the men on the bank of the river will be recruited from the 12th Field Battery, R.C.A., C.A.S.F., and will be sent to the 12th Field Battery, R.C.A., C.A.S.F., at Medicine Hat.

AUSSIE LABOR GIVES EMPIRE WAR SUPPORT

Leader Curtin Pledges Unflinching Aid To British Cause

MELBOURNE, Aug. 28.—John Curtin, leader of the Labor Party, fired the first shot in the Australian general election campaign Wednesday. The election will be held Sept. 21.

In an Australian-wide broadcast Mr. Curtin recalled he had always insisted on Australia's main defensive strength could be derived from a strong air force. At this advice had been taken. Australia would have had less occasion for disquietude, he added.

He promised the Labor Party's whole-hearted support to the empire air training scheme and insisted the Commonwealth expedite the manufacture of all requisite munitions. He said also that Australia must acquire more airplanes, airframes and naval bases and must build its own ships.

FAVORS TRAINING
The Labor Party supported compulsory training for home defence. Mr. Curtin said. The Labor party would take steps to reinforce Australian troops now overseas, but the extent of further participation in European campaigns by Australian volunteers must be determined by the paramount necessity of the defence of Australia. A Labor government would pay troops on a more liberal basis.

The speaker pledged the Labor Party's unflinching support to the British cause. The party realized that victory for Germany meant the loss of everything that Labor regards as fundamental to a decent existence. The resources of Australia must be devoted to stiffening of the empire's resistance and there must be no "quibbling" regarding availability of anything needed.

Churchill Sends Personal Thanks To J. W. McConnell
LONDON, Aug. 28.—Prime Minister Churchill Wednesday sent a message of thanks to J. W. McConnell, Montreal publisher, for his $100,000 contribution for the purchase of aircraft which will be known as "McConnell's Squadron."

"I am of the act of generosity with which you honor your nation and assist our common cause," said Mr. Churchill of the gift, which was announced last Saturday.

"May I express my admiration of a magnanimity matched to this hour of purpose and resolve. Hard-fought and enduring, the people of Britain know well that their brothers are numerous, powerful and true."

For well high half a century, someone in our family has been saying, "There is no other tobacco just like Old Chum." And in each generation my grandfather, my father and myself have found lots of men all over Canada to agree with us. For there's something about Old Chum, something which makes you like it better the longer you smoke it, and which always brings you back to it if you stray away. Buy a package today—it's grand tobacco—mellow, fragrant, satisfying.

WAR-LIKE ACT

But with the United States about to obtain naval and air bases in British overseas hemisphere possessions it is expected here something tangible will be offered in return. The destroyers conceivably might be part of the America quid pro quo.

OVER-AGE

MANY DESTROYERS

Destroyers built in the past few years are more powerful and better armed than the average American ship, but still the older ones would be extremely useful to the Royal Navy, officials here believe. They could be substituted, for instance, for modern destroyers on convoy duty and reduce the faster, more potent vessels the more important work in the actual zone of hostilities.

A Midlands farmer's knocking on his 80th birthday, was a horse that blew the window frame across the bed in which he was sleeping. He was uninjured.
